In the spell-off for county honors Marsha James of Galatia, won the second place medal and Roberta Keltner, Harrisburg Junior high, won third place.

Johnson Says Anti-Recession Law Plans Will Provide 2 Million Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrat Leader Lyndon B. Johnson estimated today that anti-recession legislation moving through Congress could provide two million jobs. That is almost 40 per cent of the 5,173,000 unemployed in February.

"I have a great deal more confidence in the economic outlook now simply because the wheels have been set in motion and the government is actively at work to combat unemployment," Johnson told reporters.

Johnson's statement was one of the most optimistic by a Democrat since the current recession began. It came amid these other developments on the economic front:

—The Federal Reserve Board was expected to report today that industrial output showed another drop in February.

—Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson expressed new confidence

Vanguard 1 Now In Orbit

Both Satellite and Third Stage Rocket Are Hurlled Into Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Navy triumphantly hurled a new American satellite into space today in the nose of a Vanguard which overcame past failures in the bursting flame of a spectacular launching.

President Eisenhower made the victorious announcement that the United States had put a new baby moon into orbit around the earth. It will be called Vanguard 1.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of the Vanguard project, disclosed that the tiny satellite, which he said would circle the earth for "certainly five or 10 10 years," plus the third stage of the Vanguard rocket were hurled into orbit this morning.

Hagen also announced the Navy will try "very soon" to put a fully-instrumented 21.5 inch satellite into orbit.

After one crushing disappointment after another, the Vanguard, a pencil-thin thing of steel,

Pope County Couple Seriously Hurt in Collision

A Pope county couple suffered serious injuries in a collision Saturday on Route 145 near Delwood.

In the Harrisburg hospital are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hunt of near Goiconda. Mr. Hunt, 69 years old, sustained chest injuries and a broken nose and his wife, 59, suffered arm and leg injuries and lost much blood.

The couple was returning home from Harrisburg when the crash occurred.

State Trooper Adolph Sweat said the crash occurred when a pickup truck driven by Jerry Jackson, 14, of Harrisburg Route 3 pulled onto the highway and to avoid a collision Hunt swerved and crashed into a guardrail.

The lad was given police tickets charging him with disobeying a stop sign and operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license.

very beauty, cast off the mantle of frustration and with a roar of triumph hurtled straight up into the Florida skies.

Some two hours and 30 minutes after the 7:16 a. m. e. s. t. launching, the official announcement was made from Washington that the Navy had accomplished what it dared not hope for—the orbiting of a new moon in the skies.

A Wild Celebration

The announcement freed anxious watchers at Cape Canaveral of long weeks of tension—tension that had built up through two actual Vanguard launches, failures and a third "scrubbing."

The news touched off a wild celebration in the blockhouse held by the Vanguard launching platform.

The President used just two short sentences to make known to the free world the results of the mighty sweat and toil that went into today's launching.

Vanguard I joined Explorer I, fired by an Army Jupiter-C missile and Russia's Sputnik II in space.

The President said he had just been informed "that a small vehicle has been placed in orbit around the earth by the Vanguard rocket."

"The orbiting is part of a series of tests which will be conducted prior to the launching of Vanguard satellites as part of the United States' participation in International Geophysical Year," the President said.

In Orbit in 10 Minutes

The baby moon, which sent earthward a steady song of triumph that was picked up on mini-track and other receivers, had to achieve a speed of 18,000 miles an hour 300 miles above the earth to get into orbit.

It was the failure to get up that

City Council To Meet Tuesday

The Harrisburg city council will hold its first meeting since the March 11 primary tomorrow starting at 6 p. m.

Under normal procedure, the canvassing of the primary vote will be one of the orders of business.

In the primary last week Lee Morse was elected commissioner to fill a vacancy on the council and he will be eligible to take office following the canvass and when his bond has been arranged.

Storm Alert A Success In Saline County

Civil Defense Personnel Track Plane in Test

The storm warning practice alert in Saline county Sunday afternoon was a perfect success, Ray Alt-mire, County Civil Service Director, stated today.

The exercise, "Operation Tornado Alert," was conducted over an area extending from Cairo on the south to Mount Vernon and Salem on the north and from Chester on the west to Elizabethtown on the east.

The operation was monitored by radio operators in Missouri, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. A similar test is planned next month in southeast Missouri and northwest Kentucky, officials said.

At 2 p. m. Sunday Du Quoin District 13 notified all sheriffs' offices in the 13 southeastern counties that a practice alert was on. The sheriffs in turn called all Civil Defense directors and the amateur radio base station in their county. In Saline county, it was the amateur station operated by Joe Tate. All observers were alerted.

A plane was started from Anna, representing a tornado. The word condition was selected when a plane was spotted, in order to prevent confusion in reports by the observers.

When the plane was spotted from a town the word condition number two was reported. As the plane approached the city, it made a short circle to be identified and the spotter reported condition number three, meaning the storm had hit.

As the plane left town the spotter reported again condition number two and stated its direction.

In Saline county, the report was received when the plane left Elizabethtown. In a period of four minutes, the spotter, Mrs. Robert DeNeal, who lives 10 miles south of Harrisburg, reported condition number two. Immediately after, Hal Burnett, four miles south of Harrisburg, reported condition number two traveling north over Route 145. Then spotters reported it approaching the city.

Other spotters reported it circling clockwise in the south part of town. Then the airport reported the plane traveling northwest.

The amateur radio operators in southern Illinois did a good job in reporting the simulated storm systems.

Mr. Alt-mire, after being instrumental in setting up the alert in Saline county, listened to all reports at Mr. Tate's base short wave radio station. They also listened to all the reports from all the counties and towns in the area. They now believe that in a tornado or disaster the people would be properly notified, and it will be up to them to plan for their own safety and shelter.

Galatia Lodge to Burn Mortgage at District 111 Meeting Tuesday Night

The burning of the mortgage on the lodge building will be a feature at a meeting of District 111, I. O. O. F., at Galatia Lodge No. 433 Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

To be present and deliver the principal address will be Curt C. Lindauer of Belleville, Grand warden of the I. O. O. F., State of Illinois.

Galatia lodge has just completed paying off the mortgage on its two-story brick building, which has the lodge room on the second floor with the first floor being rented.

The lodge building burned March 2, 1946. Rebuilding started the same year and was completed early in 1947. The Galatia I. O. O. F. and Rebekahs missed no meetings because of the fire, holding them in the Galatia Methodist church and the Galatia grade school.

An evening of entertainment and refreshments has been planned.

Presiding at the meeting will be Guy Price, district deputy Grand master and District President Lee Morse. The drill team of Dorrisville lodge will present a short drill

Father Does Not Blame Wife Who Smothered Son

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Terrance D. Hitt, husband of an American woman who smothered and buried her baby and then reported it kidnapped said Sunday night his wife "comes first" and he does not blame her.

Hitt, 28, Plymouth, Mich., apologized to Okinawans through news-men for causing "inconveniences" in the false kidnapping report which touched off a three-day search.

The boy, six week old Brady Dean Hitt, was found buried in the vegetable garden behind the Hitt home. The mother, Madelyn, 26, confessed she smothered the baby. Doctors caring for her said she was suffering from a "psychosis."

"Ever since the baby was born, she hasn't been quite herself," said Hitt, who had no previous knowledge that the mother had killed her son. He is a civilian technician working for the U. S. Air Force.

"There were times when I believed she didn't recognize me," he said. "I don't blame my wife a bit. I realize we don't have a boy any more but right now my wife comes first."

Investigators said the baby died about 7 p. m. Wednesday. Mrs. Hitt reported it kidnapped between 7:30 and 8 p. m. A screen had been ripped from the bedroom window.

Hitt said his wife made the surprise confession at home after attending a neighbor's 25th wedding anniversary, where they had gone in an attempt to relax from the strain.

During the search, the most intensive in this island's history, Hitt made a television and radio appeal to the kidnaper of his child to bring him back.

W. E. Smith, 81, Eldorado, Dies in Veterans Hospital

W. E. Smith, 81, died at 10 p. m. Sunday in the Veterans hospital at Marion. He was a retired insurance agent and a resident of Eldorado.

He is survived by his wife, Stella; his son, Kenneth Smith, Eldorado, and his daughters, Mrs. F. M. Allen, Freeport, Mrs. Omar Hobbs, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, Dover, Del. He is also survived by his stepchildren: Mrs. Harley Stricklin, Mrs. Martha Hannah and Mrs. Ruth Doherty, all of Detroit, Mich. There are three grandchildren. Mrs. Ray Whitmore, Pueblo, Colo., and Mrs. Charles Wise, Ft. Worth, Tex., are surviving sisters of Mr. Smith.

The body will lie in state at the Eldorado funeral home until the funeral at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Raleigh Baptist church where he was a member. Rev. C. E. Russell will officiate and burial will be in the Raleigh Masonic cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Thelma, and his son, James, in the family home and his son, Robert Hill in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga. He is also survived by his father, Earl Hill, his brothers, Ralph Hill, Carl Hill and Leon Hill, and his sisters, Mrs. Hazel Hill Curley, Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Louise Tanner, all of Carrier Mills.

Jolly said the shooting occurred around 2 a. m. Deputy Sheriff Jeff Stricklin, who lives in Carrier Mills, said he got a call on the shooting about 2 a. m.

Mrs. Lewis is the mother of six children, officers said. One of them, Ferrell Morse, 20, lives with his mother. Four others live with their father, Homer Morse, on Stoneford Route 1 and another is married.

Officers said Mrs. Lewis' present husband, Joe Lewis, is an inmate of Menard penitentiary serving a term for forgery.

Mr. Hill's funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Salem church near Carrier Mills. Rev. Jess Clarida will officiate and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will lie in state at the Thornton funeral home in Carrier Mills until time for the funeral.

His Sister, Mrs. Teresa Lewis, Is Held In Jail

Shooting Occurs In Yard Early Sunday Morning

Truman Hill, 42-year-old Carrier Mills resident, was dead today as a result of a shotgun blast which struck him in the left part of his body and his sister, Mrs. Teresa Lewis, 39, is held in the Saline county jail in connection with the shooting. No charges had been filed this morning.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Donelson said that Mrs. Lewis admitted she fired the shotgun in the yard near her home in the east part of Carrier Mills early Sunday after the victim and another brother, Ralph Hill, had threatened her with bodily harm. She said the two had been drinking.

Mrs. Lewis said that after she was threatened she urged them to leave and when they didn't she got a shotgun at the home of a neighbor, Walter Jolly. In the yard she again begged them to leave and when they didn't, she said, the next thing she knew the gun went off.

Inquest Wednesday

Hill was rushed to the Harrisburg hospital, where he died at 10:15 last night.

Coroner James Thornton said an inquest into the death will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the court house in Harrisburg.

Deputy Sheriff Donelson said that the left side of Hill was filled with shotgun pellets, that probably between 100 and 150 entered the body. He said the gun must have been fired from 40 or 50 feet away. The gun, he stated, was an old 12 gauge single-shot shotgun.

Walter Jolly told a Daily Register reporter this morning that he and his wife were aroused by Mrs. Lewis early Sunday. She came in and asked him to call the law, stating that the brothers were disturbing her, Jolly said, adding that he refused.

He said she talked with them a few minutes, then declared she would go back and try to run them off by herself.

Mother of Six Children

She returned after a while and got the shotgun, which was visible in the corner of the Jolly two-room house, Jolly continued, and went outside with it.

He said that he and his wife remained inside their house but could hear the woman tell the men to go on and not bother her. Then they heard the shot, he stated.

Jolly said the shooting occurred around 2 a. m. Deputy Sheriff Jeff Stricklin, who lives in Carrier Mills, said he got a call on the shooting about 2 a. m.

An Acting President

Editorial—BY BRUCE BLOSSAT President Eisenhower is to be commended for his effort to settle—in the absence of a constitutional amendment or new legislation—how the nation shall be governed when a president becomes too ill to perform his duties yet does not die.

His arrangement providing for an assumption of power by Vice President Nixon, in the event of presidential disability, advances concretely for the first time the idea of the "acting president."

Never in history has a vice president taken the reins unless his superior has died in office.
And then, of course, he has become president in full fact.

Ironically the first time that happened, when Vice President John Tyler took over from President William Henry Harrison in 1841, there was much official argument that he should simply be regarded as "acting president." But Tyler insisted he had full presidential stature, and his view prevailed.

The matter is a good deal trickier, however, as it affects a president who is still alive but unable to do his job. The Constitution says plainly that in the case of inability to perform, the president's power and duties shall fall to the vice president. But it doesn't say who shall decide when this condition exists, or what shall happen if the ailing president gets well again.

Mr. Eisenhower now says he will decide the question of his own disability so long as he is physically able, and also will determine when to resume his duties.

If he should be unable to make the decision, Nixon is empowered to make it after "appropriate" consultation with other authorities—which could mean doctors, members of the Cabinet, and others. But, obviously, Nixon holds the key.

Should this situation ever arise, therefore, with the President finally taking back his authority, Nixon would in fact become the first acting president.

House Speaker Rayburn and some others doubt the legality of the arrangement, saying a vice president must take the oath as presi-

"Whatta Y'Mean It Won't Work?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Harris Committee treats ex-Commissioner Mack gently; Ike says he's being pulled from all sides re depression measures; Eisenhower feels states are rooking Uncle Sam on costly real estate on highway routes.

WASHINGTON.—In their last session with ex-Commissioner Richard Mack the Harris Committee was about as gentle with him as the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee which confirmed him in the first place. They virtually kissed him on both cheeks, did not bother to cross-examine him on various interesting points, including how he happened to have Thurman Whiteside's law associate, Earl Barber, planted right inside his office.

Whiteside not only paid Commissioner Mack various sums of money but sent Barber up to Washington to serve as Mack's assistant.
Thus Whiteside had a double check on Mack.

Barber in turn used $200 of the taxpayers' money to phone a bar girl in Miami, Joyce Cook. Barber placed the calls from the FCC to a phone booth alongside the bar where Miss Joyce worked—paid for by Uncle Sam.

The Harris Committee didn't bother to go into any of this.
IKE WORRIES

Getting the country out of an economic recession can be pretty nerve-racking, President Eisenhower and could not thereafter be dislodged from the higher post.
But many constitutional experts think the oath unnecessary and approve Mr. Eisenhower's plan.

Certainly it is far better than no definition of the disability procedure at all. Until Congress, either through a new law or a constitutional amendment, shall offer a plan of its own, this one will be welcomed by most Americans as a form of insurance against the terrible confusion that otherwise might follow from serious presidential disability.

hower told congressional Republican leaders the other day, particularly when the White House is beset with as many curatives as are currently under study.

"I'm being pulled from all sides," reported the President.

Some of his advisers, he said, think an accelerated public works program will be sufficient to lift us out of the rut, while others, including Vice President Nixon, think a tax cut is essential. In addition, like said, there is the question of what public works—reclamation, public housing, post offices, road building and so on—are best suited to the recovery drive.

"As far as I am concerned, the primary aim is providing jobs," the President declared. "Not just spending a lot of money, but spending it in a way that will get as many unemployed back to work at useful occupations as soon as possible, preferably within the next three months."

"Well, nothing puts people back to work like building houses, Mr.
President," suggested Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana. "We can do this as fast as we want to. If it now takes an average of four men to build a house in a year, why not build it in six months with eight men? If we build a million new houses this year, it will mean a million new heating units, more furniture making, plumbing and other related activities, in addition to the work provided for carpenters, bricklayers and electricians."

BANKERS DUCK VET LOANS
Capehart maintained that one reason for the lag in housing was the refusal of bankers and building and loan groups to carry mortgages on veterans' (GI) homes at 4 1/2 per cent interest. If the GI interest rate was closer to the FHA loan rate of 5 1/4 per cent, it would greatly stimulate home-building, Capehart contended, adding: "There were only 4,000 GI home starts in January. There should have been at least 25,000."

The President said he agreed, but that Capehart might have difficulty getting the interest hike thru the Democratic controlled congress. He added that he was having some difficulty himself trying to expedite the super-highway program, which has been delayed by differences over the purchase of rights-of-way through various cities.

Real estate tracts needed for the highway rights-of-way are purchased by state governments and the latter are not greatly concerned in keeping down the cost, Ike pointed out, as long as the federal government foots 90 per cent of the bill.

"Something will have to be done about this," he remarked testily.
"I don't want the highway program tied up by a lot of costly real estate deals. We've got to speed up these road-construction projects if we are going to realize some real employment benefits from the program in the next few months."

The President said he would not oppose a tax cut if all other recession remedies proved inadequate. However, he said he was inclined to agree with Sen. Ed Martin (Pa.) and some others at the conference that the effects of a tax reduction might not be felt soon enough to materially relieve the slump. He wanted to explore the tax proposal at a subsequent meeting when Secretary of the Treasury Anderson could be present.

DECLARATION OF INTERDEPENDENCE

Philadelphia, birthplace of the launched what Philadelphians called an M-satellite this week. M

Dr. Stefan Osusky, former Czech anti-Communist exile in the United States, participated in the launching.

Chief arguments of the Philadelphia M-satellites: "National securi-

PLANNING A SERIES of mental health plays to be staged in Southern Illinois communities this spring are Dr. Archibald McLeod, chairman of the Southern Illinois University department of theater; Dorothy Beck, Winchester speech student at SIU, and Dr. Albert Shafter, assistant director of SIU's Rehabilitation Institute. The plays, dramatizing family emotional problems, will be sponsored by the Illinois State Department of Public Welfare and directed by Miss Beck. The state chose SIU's Southern Players for a "trial run" after similar productions proved successful in Ohio.

USING ASSEMBLY LINE METHODS, members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority at Southern Illinois University prepare thousands of Easter Seal letters for mailing to residents of 33 southern Illinois counties. The annual campaign, sponsored by the Southern Illinois Society for the Crippled, Inc., raises funds for aid and services to the area's physically handicapped children. Main feature of the Society's program is an annual summer camp at Giant City State Park near Carbondale. One of Alpha Gamma Delta's special projects is care of crippled children. Pictured, from left, are Ramona Sur-galski, Chicago; Lillian Brayfield, Herrin; Janet Presley and Charlotte Lungwitz, Carbondale, and

Afternoon Easter Service Panned For Williams Hill

(By Rev. James G. Johnson)

Plans are formulating for the annual outdoor Easter service to be held at Williams' Hill Tower four miles west of Herod, Ill. The service is designed to avoid conflicting hours with other Christian services on Easter in order that more people may enjoy the privilege of worshipping our risen Lord on the mountain top near the joining of the counties of Pope, Hardin, Gallatin and Saline and at the highest point in Southern Illinois.

The hour selected for the meeting is 3:00 p. m. Easter Sunday on April 6. Special music will be furnished by the Phelps Quarter consisting of brothers of one family and beloved by many who have heard them sing.

In years past, it has been possible to have radio evangelists, home and foreign missionaries, ex-chaplains, pastors and teachers, Sunday School superintendents and Christian business men, etc.
At the present time it is expected that the speaker will be the local missionary unless the Lord leads otherwise.

Individuals and churches are urged to keep this service in mind for Easter and make plans to help us make this one of the best outdoor Easter services ever held in Southern Illinois.

The site is located close enough to Harrisburg for easy driving comfort and it will be possible to park and remain in the car during a major part of the service.
A sincere thank you is extended

General Baptist Church W.M.S. Make and Roll Leper Bandages

The Amanda Reynolds Women's Missionary Society of the First General Baptist church met in the church at 9 a. m. Wednesday to make and roll bandages for lepers. There was a potluck dinner at the noon hour and the business session was held at 2 p. m.

Committees were appointed to serve at the Southern Illinois convention which will be held in the church for one day, April 12, beginning at 10 a. m.

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Ola Maszaros, president; Eunice Black, vice-president; Wanda Parrish, teacher; Ollie Ferrell, assistant teacher and Lillie Disney, secretary-treasurer. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Ferrell.

Those present at the meeting were: Ona Melton, Ola Maszaros, Wanda Parrish, Louise Brinkley, Myrtle Parrish, Lillie Disney, Ruby Wallace, Ollie Ferrell, Sylvia Fowler, Eunice Black, Frankie Vinyard and visitors Alice Read, Nell Dooley, Writie Rogers and Wilda Frazier.

Mary Walker Circle Meets With Mrs. John Cape

The Mary Walker circle of the First Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. John Cape Thursday. Members present were: Mrs. Charles Hurt, Mrs. Noble Mitchell, Mrs. Bob Pulliam, Mrs. R. J. Morman, Mrs. John Hayes and Mrs. Charles Sutton.

The meeting opened with a group hymn and reports were given by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Pulliam on visits made to shut-ins. Mrs. Morman and Mrs. Cape were appointed to make the visits next month. Mrs. Pulliam, chairman, of the community missions, announced a prayer meeting March 18 to be held for the revival in the church at Mrs. Mitchell's home. Also the spaghetti dinner at the next meeting in the home of Mrs. Sutton. Mrs. Hurt resigned as circle chairman due to her husband's acceptance of the pastorate at Shawneetown. Mrs. Mitchell was elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Sutton presented the program on prayer and Mrs. Mitchell read the scripture.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and a gift presented to Mrs. Hurt in appreciation of her service.

CIPS Asks ICC For Water Heating Rate Changes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Central Illinois Public Service Co. has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to approve a change in its control electric water heating service which would eliminate the previous requirement that the customer also have an electric range. The change would be effective April 14.

C. F. Wall, manager of CIPS rate and research department, said the change would make any residential customer eligible for lower costs control service. There is no change in the provision relating to the size of heating elements.

Under control service the water heater operates only during off peak hours when there are less demands on CIPS facilities for other uses of electricity. The services offer approximately 15½ hours of electric water heating daily at 1¼ cents per kilowatt hour, which is considerably lower than the regular residential rate.

Matter of FACT

The Mediterranean, the largest landlocked sea in the world, is the remains of a much larger body of water. A few million years ago, this greater sea, called Tethys by geologists, extended eastward across southern Asia. Later the shores of Tethys were thrust together as the earth's crust contracted. Much of the sea bottom was pushed up and wrinkled to form such mountain systems as the Alps, Apennines and Atlas.

Miss Laura Raley Will Wed In Church Ceremony, Saturday

Miss Laura Raley, daughter of Mrs. Florence Raley and the late James Raley, 716 West Parish street, Harrisburg, and Glen Gillespie of New Burnside, will be married in the McKinley Avenue Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

Immediately following the wedding there will be a reception in the dining room of the church, the wedding present of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hiller. Mr. Hiller is office manager for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in Harrisburg where Miss Raley is senior clerk.

Mr. Gillespie is a chemical engineer for the Union Carbide and Chemical company in Paducah and the bride couple will make their home at 222 South Main street, Harrisburg.

Relatives and friends of the Raley and Gillespie families are invited to attend the wedding and reception.

Naomi Sunday School Class Meets at McKinley Avenue Church

The Naomi Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met in the church recently. Rev. Dan Stone led the opening prayer and gave a devotion, followed with prayer led by Mrs. Mollie Irvin. Roll call was answered with scripture verses and Mrs. Gertrude Hendren dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Others present were: Mrs. Jane Gasaway, class teacher, Mrs. Ollie Fulkerson, Mrs. Mattie Rogers, Mrs. Ora Larson, Mrs. Martha Ashbridge and Mrs. Gertrude Hutchison.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ide of Denison, Texas, were at the home of Mrs. Mabel Meadows, 219 South Durham street, over the week end and visited other relatives and friends. Mrs. Ide, granddaughter of Mrs. Meadows, was the former Betty Jo Young of Harrisburg. The couple, accompanied by Mrs. Meadows, went to Pontiac, Mich., to visit their parents and other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hayes and baby of St. Louis, Mo., are in Harrisburg visiting a few days. Mrs. Hayes is the former Shirley Sherfield, granddaughter of Mrs. Aline Lackey of RFD 4, Harrisburg, at whose home they are visiting.

Susannah Wesley Class Holds Family Potluck

The Susannah Wesley class of the First Methodist church held a potluck dinner for members' families Thursday evening at Wesley Center. Mrs. Walter Cummins was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Virginia Pritchard and Miss Hanna Gaertner.

After dinner the group enjoyed a showing of color slides.

The following and their families were present: Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Pankey, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cummins, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gilliam, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coker, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Ozment, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kline;

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Brown, Mrs. Mitchell Golish, Mrs. Bill Ghent, Mrs. Gordon Guard, Mrs. Virginia Pritchard, Miss Hanna Gaertner, Miss Kathy Mode, Mrs. Eleanor Blades and Mitchell Kanady.

Miss Carole Thaxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuel Thaxton who is a senior at Southern Illinois University, is visiting during spring vacation from classes with college friends in Florida.

SALINE COUNTY COUNCIL. Girl Scouts of America, held their annual Mother and Daughter social Saturday night. The picnic-style dinner and meeting was the climax of observances in honor of the 46th birthday of Girl Scouts. Dr. Joe Bryant of Ridgway was guest speaker, showing many beautiful slides to illustrate his talk on "Birds." Approximately 300 Girl Scouts and Brownies, their mothers, and leaders were present at the meeting, held at Wesley Center. From the left, Mrs. Glen Muckley, Eldorado, county chairman; Mrs. Bertis Herrmann, chairman of special events in Eldorado; Mrs. Ronnie Derge, chairman of special events in Harrisburg; Dr. Bryant, Mrs. Mabel Webb, executive director, King Coal Council, with offices in Herrin; Mrs. James Barker, Eldorado, county organizer; Mrs. Albertina Morgan, Herrin, field director.

George Thornberry to Observe His 100th Birthday with Quiet Celebration

George Thornberry

George Thornberry will be 100 years old Saturday. This is an event toward which he has looked for several years and it was his plan to have a fish fry and celebration for the "Big One." He has been inviting his friends for the past five years and his children have always encouraged him in this great project.

Mr. Thornberry has had rather a bad winter and his doctors have advised him and his children against this exhausting day. He is, of course, disappointed, but not "too old to learn," so has given his consent to the cancellation of the big party.

The day will be spent very quietly with his family and to protect this fine old gentleman his friends are asked to remember the day only with written messages of their regards and good wishes. In this way Mr. Thornberry will know that he is remembered and can read his greetings one at a time and take time to enjoy memories of the associations with the sender.

It was this reporter's privilege to be on that long list of invited guests to the party, and now is the best time possible to say, "Happy Birthday George Thornberry, please rest quietly with your family and when the days are bright and you can sit out in the sun again, I shall pass by and wave greetings. All of your friends will ask about you and when the children say you want company, we will be happy to visit you."

Mr. Thornberry's children are Rayney Thornberry, Raleigh; Mrs. Reba Hughes and Mrs. Clyde (Ruth) Deal, Galatia, and Mrs. Georgia Rayborn Raleigh. Mr. Thornberry makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Deal, and he takes great pride in his grandchildren, Keith Deal and Marilyn Lane, and his great-grandchildren, Ronda Gale Deal and Randy Deal.

The Garden Heights Home Bureau unit will meet at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday with Mrs. Joe Smith RFD 3.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Marvel Galatia, have received word from their son, Jack Burchell, Bartonville, formerly a resident of Galatia, that they are now grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Burchell are parents of a girl born in a Peoria hospital March 5. The baby has been named Lore Lee and weighed eight pounds four ounces at birth. The maternal grandparents live in Bartonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Phelps, Galatia, are parents of a girl born at the Harrisburg hospital Saturday. The baby has been named Deborah Lee and weighed nine pounds, nine ounces at birth.

LEAD WITH YOUR LEFT

by ED LACY

THE STORY: Ed Owens, a former policeman who is working as a messenger for a brokerage house, has been murdered. David Wintino, youngest detective on the New York police force, is working on the case.

III
WALES said, "We might as well sit down. You ever a fighter, young fellow?"

"Amateur. What makes you ask—see me in the ring?"
He shook his head and you wondered how his long scrawny neck bore the strain. "I haven't seen a fight since Louis was knocking them over. You got the right hands for a pug, wide, deep-set knuckles."

"I did okay. Wanted to turn pro but my folks raised too much fuss. So I joined the force."
Wales smiled, he had neat even teeth—and all of them store choppers. "Nothing in the world like being a young cop, the boss of your beat. Or maybe it's just there's nothing like being young. Get old and all you can do is read about things. I read and read. Why my eyes look shot. I don't need glasses, though and... who's going to tell Jane about this?"

"Jane?"
"Ed's wife. They got a daughter working someplace in South America for an oil company. Had a boy who died when he was a kid. This will be rough on Jane."

I got out my notebook, wrote down Wales' full name, home address, last precinct squad he worked on, the Owens' home address. "How long you been working here, Mr. Wales?"

"About three years. Ed needed the dough but I'm all alone. I work to keep busy. My wife passed away back in '49, right after I retired from the force. When Ed started working here he got me on. Five hours a day, a way of passing time."

"You in the office when Mr. Owens was killed?"
"No. I left at 11:30 to take some bonds to a customer up on the Grand Concourse. He wasn't in so I came back here—about 20 minutes before the police arrived."

"Did he carry much cash?"
"Ed? Lucky to have a buck floating around his pockets. Every extra dime went on the ponies. Not that Ed was a real gambler, but a few bucks here and there every week."

"Did Mr. Owens have any enemies? Perhaps some character he once collared."

Wales shrugged, a tired motion. "No. At least none I ever heard of. We were just run-of-the-mill detectives, the usual arrests. We had one big collar, got a killer in a gang war. But that was a long time ago and he went up in smoke in the chair."

"We'll have to dig into his arrest record."

Wales smiled sadly. "Dig, dig, clear every little detail, that's a detective's life. A crime is like an iceberg, one-tenth showing and nine-tenths hidden."

AT exactly 6 a. m. I awoke as though an alarm had gone off. I can always do that.

I was getting fresh shorts out of the desk drawer when Mary sat up, coming wide-awake fast as she always does, and said, "Are you getting up or going to bed? What time is it?"

"Sixteen after six. Have coffee with me?"

Mary yawned.
I dressed while she was in the kitchenette. When I sat down for my java Mary said, "Honest, Dave, you belong on Madison Avenue. You have a flair for wearing clothes. You look the part."

"I've been on Madison Avenue, had a fixed post there during a strike. Madison Avenue and 114th Street."

"Oh, stop talking about your awful job. I bet even the Commissioner forgets his work when he's home."

"Stop riding me, you know I'm junior man," I said.
Mary kept stirring her cup.

"Dave, will you get in touch with Uncle Frank? At least be polite enough to see what he wants."

"Okay. Tomorrow, when I'm off."

Her face came alive. "Really?"
"As you said, at least I can be polite." Frank wasn't a bad guy, long as he remained Uncle Frank and not bossman Frank.

WAITING for the elevator I checked my pockets: badge, wallet, keys, pens, notebook, extra shells, touched the gun in its shoulder holster, and ran a hand over my hair. I bought the morning papers, and dropped into the first coffee pot I hit to have a slow cup of the junk and see what they had to say about Ed Owens.

One paper surprised me by giving him a whole column. After saying he'd been shot in a holdup while carrying non-negotiable bonds, they went on to say Owens and Wales had solved the murder of a Boots Brenner back in 1930. I never heard of the joker but the paper claimed he was well on his way to becoming the Al Capone of New York City when he was found in a vacant Brooklyn lot full of lead. "Within 24 hours, through brilliant detective work" Owens and Wales arrested a small-time bootlegger named Sal Kahn who was running a still near the lot where Brenner's body was found. Kahn had a record of several arrests for making and selling booze. He admitted killing Boots when the gangster tried to muscle in on an electric still Kahn was running. The still was an "amazing work of scientific ingenuity." Kahn pleaded self-defense, and died in the chair without revealing the name of his partner, who had built the still.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Our failures are very discouraging. They are even more serious when others criticize us and ridicule what we have tried to accomplish. Sneers seem to devastate our whole beings. Men are so hard on each other. They look down condescendingly on their fellow men. Failure makes us want to give up or surrender our ambitions. It makes us want to hide.

God is so much more magnanimous than are men. He is more sympathetic. He is completely understanding and patient. God never gives up. He never recognizes defeat.

Regardless of how badly we fail, God does not forsake us. He is ever present to give us another chance. He forgives sins which men hold against their friends through life. God never sees man as worthless. He always holds out a helping hand and offers salvation. We must be doubly aware of God's love during Lent, and treat others as God treats us.

Completes 'Home Ec Course for Men'

Walter Moore, of 1232 South McKinley, Harrisburg, is among 28 students who have completed the only course offered by Southern Illinois University's School of Home Economics which women are not allowed to attend.

Called "Home Economics for Men," the course covers such topics as family relations, budgets, food buying, etiquette, grooming and clothing selection. Many of the enrollees are Air Force ROTC cadets, most of whom become commissioned officers at graduation.

"Although the course isn't new it has proved to be so practical that we are now offering it every quarter to meet the demand," said Mrs. Mildred Collins, home economics lecturer who teaches the course.

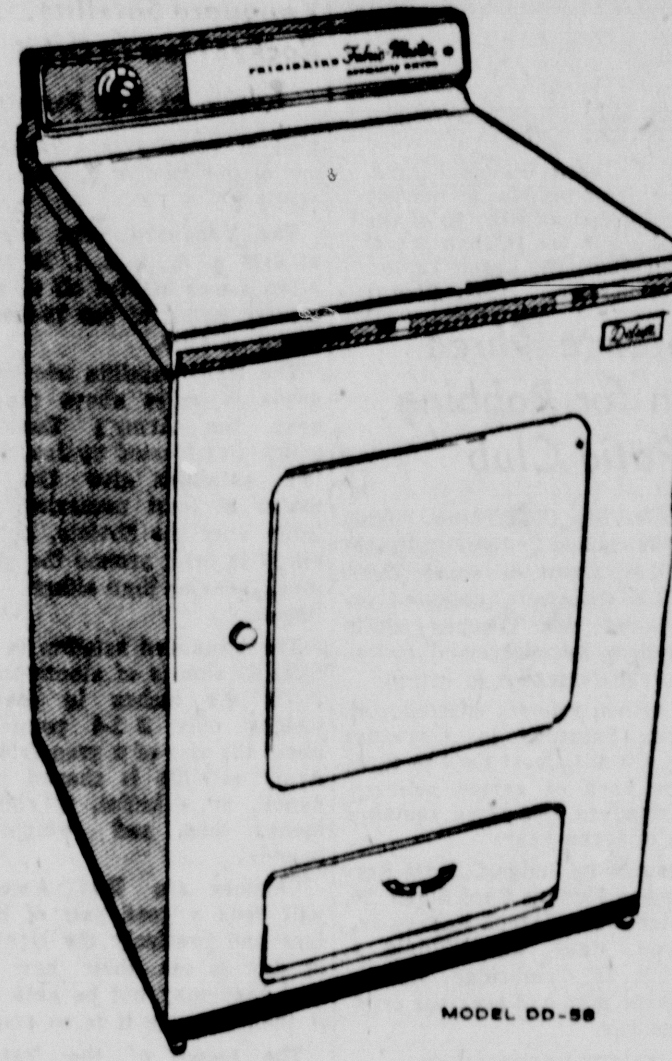

The Schell Chateau, built at a cost of one million dollars in 1901 at Northfield, Mass., was designed by Bruce Price, father of Emily Post.

'Wake Up and Read' Theme for National Library Week March 16-22

"Wake Up and Read" is the theme of National Library Week, March 16-22. The slogan was launched two years ago by "This Week" magazine and Dr. Frank C. Baxter, television star, wrote the first article for it. Charles Laughton, actor and author, wrote an article for the same magazine March 16 and encouraged reading aloud, especially in family groups. Russell Malan, Harrisburg superintendent of schools, was appointed to the Illinois Citizens' committee by Gov. William G. Stratton, honorary chairman for Library week and Mary Jane Rice, librarian, is the member of the Illinois Librarians' committee from Harrisburg.

National Library Week will focus widespread attention on libraries of all kinds and radio, television, newspapers, businesses, schools and clubs will feature reading during the period.

ALA President Lucile M. Morsch, Deputy Chief Assistant Librarian, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C., declared:

"The observance of National Library Week could hardly be more timely. When March 16-22 was selected as a week to be used for focussing the attention of the American people on the importance of books and libraries, no one dreamed that the renaissance of the egghead would occur so dramatically as it has in recent months. All of a sudden, the man carrying a book or seen reading one is marked as a man of distinction. The young people leaving bookstore or library impatient to read the books they carry are looked upon as the hope of tomorrow. Librarians, more proud than ever of their mission of bringing books and people together, see expanded opportunities for service."

"All of this is due to the abrupt awakening of the people to a shortage of scientists, mathematicians, linguists, and teachers of all kinds and the importance of their contribution to our national existence. It is due also to our experience of being rudely shaken out of a comfortable complacency. We are realizing as we have not realized for many years that knowledge is power, and that knowledge may be obtained in school or thru self-education. In either case, reading plays an important role, and books—enough books and the right books—must be accessible. An informed citizenry is an enlightened citizenry and an indispensable ingredient in a democracy where the people make the decisions."

"It is estimated that 10,000 more

Death Rate Climbs in U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Public Health Service reported today the death rate in the United States climbed again in 1957 for the third straight year.

Dr. Robert J. Anderson, chief of the agency's communicable disease center, said there were 50,000 more deaths from all causes last year including an extra 15,000 from influenza and pneumonia.

Last year's estimated death rate was 9542 persons out of every 100,000—35 more per 100,000 than in 1954.

Chief cause of death was heart disease which accounted for 510 persons out of every 100,000. In 1955 this average was 501.5 persons per 100,000 and 484.6 in 1954. Tuberculosis was the one major disease that took fewer lives in 1957 than in 1956. It claimed 7.8 persons per 100,000 in 1957 compared with 8.4 persons the year before.

Auto accidents also took a lower toll in 1957 than in 1956. There were 22.1 deaths per 100,000 persons in auto accidents last year compared with 23.7 in 1956.

But cancer deaths mounted in 1957, taking a toll of 150.2 out of every 100,000 persons compared with 147.9 in 1956.

librarians could be employed today—at least that many jobs could be filled. These jobs are highly interesting and challenging, too. . . . in public libraries, school libraries, college and university libraries, and libraries which serve industrial firms, hospitals and other institutions. Some are at U. S. military posts and civilian establishments throughout the world. These jobs are well paid and they also offer incalculable satisfactions to young men and women who have what it takes to be a librarian. We are most eager to assist young people to consider librarianship as a career, and to welcome them as colleagues in a great service profession."

Library week will inspire more people to more thoughtful reading and organization leaders will schedule special projects and encourage members to participate in Library week events.

Editors and broadcasters will feature reading and libraries in their spring programs.

Teachers and librarians will supply reading lists and promote the use of books and current reading materials.

Parents will make a special effort to take their children to the libraries and browse with them, introduce them to the joys of reading and foster the taste for home libraries and family reading hours.

Everyone will be reminded of the advantages of taking time out for reading and encouraged to rediscover the delights and challenge of the written word.

Pilot Is Freed By Communists

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Capt. Leon Pfeiffer, of Kenosha, Wis., the jet pilot who was shot down by the Communists 10 days ago, returned to freedom in this Korean border village today.

A Communist jeep brought Pfeiffer to Panmunjom, but his release was delayed for about an hour while Allied and Red representatives haggled over the details of the transfer.

Mrs. Pfeiffer at home in Kenosha, was overjoyed by her husband's release.

Pfeiffer is one of two Americans whose F-86 jets were fired upon by the Reds when they strayed over Communist territory during maneuvers.

Goodman Attends Sales Management Seminar by Ford

Gordon Goodman of Goodman Ford, Inc., Harrisburg, along with 19 other Ford dealership sales personnel from Ford Division's two-state St. Louis sales district, attended a sales management seminar at the Ambassador-Kingsway Hotel March 10-14.

The seminar covered the latest techniques in automotive retail merchandising and management. Such topics as operating standards, sales promotion and training, service and parts management and used car conditioning were reviewed for the group.

The seminar was conducted by H. M. Liddard, Ford Division's district sales manager in St. Louis, and members of his staff.

Sentence Three Men for Robbing El Patio Club

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Three holdup men who robbed the El Patio night club near Cairo of some $2,000 March 3 and were captured by state police near Thebes within half-an-hour have received two to seven year sentences in prison.

The armed robbers entered guilty pleas Saturday in Alexander County Circuit Court here to three charges each of armed robbery. Each received the same sentence of two to seven years.

Sentenced by Judge C. Ross Reynolds were Thomas Ford Sloan, 20, Evanston, John Joseph Rooney Jr., 22, Lynn, Mass., and William J. Kendrick, 23, Cambridge, Mass.

All three men had previous criminal records.

Policeman's Son Admits Setting $400,000 Fire

CHICAGO (AP)—The 12-year-old son of a Chicago policeman admitted Sunday night he broke into a school with his younger brother and set a $400,000 fire "for a lark."

Authorities said the boy had a delinquency record and had been visiting a psychiatrist once a week. Youth officer Charles Edscheid withheld the identities of the brothers because they are juveniles.

The older boy and his 7-year-old brother were taken to the juvenile home pending an appearance in family court.

The extra-alarm blaze at the Oliver Wendell Holmes grammar school on Chicago's South Side broke out Saturday night. Firemen suspected arson because they detected an "overpowering odor" of gasoline when they entered the three-story building.

Folsom to Receive Laetare Medal

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Frank M. Folsom has been named to receive the 75th award of the University of Notre Dame's Laetare Medal.

Folsom, 63, was cited for his long recognition "as one of the great leaders of American business and industry" and his service to "the church and humanity in helping to advance the world-wide peace-time use of atomic energy."

The medal has been awarded annually since 1883 to an outstanding American Roman Catholic layman.

Folsom is executive committee chairman of the Radio Corporation of America and former president of the firm. He currently is the permanent Vatican representative to the new International Atomic Energy Agency.

California Forester Is Promoted to Key Midwest Position

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Simeri E. Jarvi of San Bernardino, Calif., has been selected as a new Assistant Regional Forester for the North Central Region of the U. S. Forest Service. This was announced today by Regional Forester A. W. Greeley of Milwaukee, whose staff Jarvi will join.

Jarvi is being promoted from the position of Supervisor of the San Bernardino National Forest. His new assignment will be that of Chief of the Forest Service north central Division of state and private forestry. In this capacity he will be in charge of Forest Service participation in cooperative tree planting, forest fire prevention and control, and other advisory and technical assistance programs carried on jointly with state forestry and conservation agencies and private timberland owners in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Missouri, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, and North Dakota.

14 Traffic Deaths in State

By United Press

Five members of an Oneida family were killed Sunday in an auto-train collision near Galesburg.

The deaths boosted Illinois weekend traffic fatality toll to at least 14.

Killed were William E. Barry, 23, his wife Sylvia, 22, and their children, Dina, 2, David, 2, and three-month-old Donald.

The Barry car was hit by a Chicago Burlington and Quincy Railroad passenger train Sunday at a rural grade crossing. The family was en route to Alexis to visit relatives.

Vanguard Satellite, Rocket Now In Orbit

kind of velocity that caused failure of the Army's Explorer II recently.

The Vanguard went into orbit at 7:26 a. m. e. s. t. 10 minutes after it was blasted off in a spectacular firing of the 73-foot Vanguard missile.

The Navy satellite whirled hundreds of miles above the earth near the Army's Explorer I, which was blasted up Jan. 31. The two satellites give the United States at least numerical superiority over the Soviets, but Sputnik II in orbit around the globe is much heavier than either U. S. "moon."

The Vanguard satellite is spherical, its skin is of aluminum, and it is 6.4 inches in diameter, weighs only 3 1/4 pounds. It's about the size of a grapefruit. The Army satellite is shaped like a pencil, or a bullet, is about 30 inches long and weighs 80.6 pounds.

Chances are that Americans will need a good pair of binoculars and precisely the right time of day to see their new moon. And they may not be able to see it then because it is so small.

The ascent of the Vanguard must have chilled the men in the blockhouse with awe.

Beaches Almost Bare

As the voice of the test conductor ticked off the final seconds before firing and reached "zero," nothing happened for a few more seconds. The rocket built up its power, then rose slowly from the rolling cloud of steam and fire beneath it.

The 11 tons sped with gathering speed up the sky, silhouetted for one dazzling instant against the red ball of the rising sun.

It was reminding of some strange, wingless bird, striking out into the sky with sure power and determination. Long-necked and graceful, the Vanguard left almost bare beaches behind it.

The Vanguard was visible for well over two minutes, and the separation of its first stage could be seen through telescope. When the first stage engine burned out, there was a moment of apprehension. The second stage had never been tested in flight before.

But like the perfect piece of complex scientific instrumentation it is, the second stage ignited an instant after the first fell away sending the rocket hurtling farther along the road to space.

Mamie's Brother-In-Law Denies FCC Influence

WASHINGTON (AP)—Col. Gordon Moore, Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law, swore today he "in no way, directly or indirectly influenced or sought to influence" the FCC's controversial award of a Miami, Fla., television channel.

Moore appeared voluntarily before a House Commerce subcommittee investigating alleged misconduct in federal regulatory agencies to deny under oath that he engaged in any wrongdoing.

He denied categorically that he ever discussed any matter with any FCC member.

"Furthermore," he said, "I have never discussed any matter with any member of the Federal Communications Commission at any time."

Moore told the subcommittee he voluntarily made his files and records available to its investigator.

"I trust that the members of this committee," he said, "are now aware that I have had no connection whatever, directly or indirectly, with Channel 10."

Moore's sister, has been accused of "engineering" FCC's award of the multi-million-dollar Miami TV channel to a subsidiary of the National Airlines. Bernard Schwartz, the subcommittee's ousted counsel, made the statement before he was dropped from the committee payroll over his charge that some of its members were trying to "whitewash" the investigation.

Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), former head investigator, charged meanwhile that an unnamed member of the Securities and Exchange Commission speculated in stocks the SEC is supposed to regulate. He also said "White House influence" figured in many cases before the Federal Power Commission, a third federal regulatory agency.

He said he understood SEC members forced their colleague to sell the stocks when they learned of the transaction.

Moulder cited the Dixon-Yates power case as one in which there was White House influence and said "many other cases" also showed the White House had intervened to influence FCC decisions.

Like the FCC and SEC, the FPC is supposed to be an independent agency.

State Jaycee President Has Day In Kangaroo Court

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP)—Robert Cudd, Monmouth, state president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was beginning to have his doubts about southern Illinois hospitality until he had his day in "court."

Cudd was en route to a district meeting here Sunday when he was stopped by a police car outside the city limits. He was questioned about an alleged hit-and-run accident.

Later, a deputy sheriff came in to the meeting and led Cudd handcuffed to court.

But, to Cudd's surprise, the court was a "kangaroo" affair made up of Mount Vernon Jaycees who tried him on a charge of impeachment. The court kept the gag going by finding the "judge" and "prosecuting attorney" guilty in the mock trial.

It Soon Will Be 'Sugaring Off' Time (Or Maple Syrup: Indian Gift to Settlers)

By John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

As the weather moderates, those southern Illinoisans wishing to get an early start at making maple sirup and sugar can begin. There will be few, if any, who will do so, for the practice has all but vanished in the area. It should be good sirup making time until about the first of April, whenever the nights are frosty and the mornings are thawing. This time will be good unless, as those versed in the lore of sugarmaking assure us, the wind blows from the east or south to slow up the sap flow. It really does make a difference, but why?

In earlier years "sugaring off" was a common practice. It marked the gathering of the first crop of the new year. The method apparently was learned from the Iroquois Indians who were skilled sugar makers. According to one of their legends they once did not have to boil the sap to have sirup and sugar. The sirup at first flowed, ready made, from the tree. One of their gods, fearing that such a delicacy coming from no more effort than that of gathering it, would demoralize a people. He accordingly poured some water on the crown of the maple and so diluted the sirup that it ever afterwards was necessary to gather and boil the diluted mixture.

There has been considerable discussion concerning the method by which the Iroquois made their sugar. Some say that they dumped heated stones into wooden troughs and bowls or earthen pots filled with sap. Others believe that they boiled the sap in birch bark vessels placed over fires. The second way has a strong claim since it has been demonstrated that such can be done successfully if the portion of the bark vessel above the level of the liquid is properly protected against the flame. However they first may have made it, they quickly saw the advantages of the white man's pot and adopted it. Maple sugar definitely is one of the gifts of the Red Man, along with beans, squash, pumpkins, artichokes, corn (maize) and tobacco.

The making of good maple sirup required a high degree of skill. The pioneer had no thermometer to indicate a temperature of 219 degrees, proper heat for sirup; or 238-240 degrees, required for turning his boiling mixture to sugar. Neither did he have a hygrometer with its Baume scale to tell that the solids in the cooking sirup had reached 65 per cent and it was properly sirup or that it was 95 per cent solids and would become sugar. Instead of these he used a small loop of twig or poured some of the boiling mixture from the straight edge of a small vessel to see if it properly "sheeted." He might test to see if it "haired," or he could pour some on snow to judge its reaction.

To rid his new sirup of fine sediment he strained it through thick woolen cloths or stirred into each gallon of slightly cooled sirup one well beaten egg or poured into it a small quantity of milk while stirring vigorously. The coagulated sediment gathered on the top where it could be skimmed off or strained out through a woolen cloth that also absorbed some of the coloring in the sirup and made it lighter. These early sugar makers might not have known just why they did all the things they did, but they knew they worked

The census report of 1860 shows that more than 40 million pounds of maple sugar was made in the United States. Many people in Illinois then made it, and local papers carried advertisements of dealers wishing to buy it. The latest report available indicates that the present yearly production is slightly more than one fourth of a million pounds. Nearly all of this is made in New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine. The methods employed there have been standardized. In only rare instances does one find it carried on as a family project. Perhaps there are none of the old-time, half-faced camps once so common, with kettles on arches over wood fires. Few horse drawn sleds with barrels wend their way through maple groves to gather sap from buckets beneath spouts set in selected maples. We wonder if any men still trudge about with buckets on shoulder yokes. Genuine maple sirup is rare, and no one seems to have hit upon an artificial flavoring that can fool those competent to judge.

So far as we have learned only one man, Paul "Shiner" Norris at Watson in Effingham county, purely out of sentiment, made sirup in southern Illinois last year. "Shiner" likes his product and stubbornly refuses to sell it. He did, however, invite the writer to

Herrin Faces Formidable W. Frankfort In Tuesday Bid For Trip to Champaign

Tigers Winners In Two Out of Three Season Tilts

By United Press
Defending champion Herrin and once-beaten Rock Falls still rated today as top contenders for the 1958 state high school basketball championship, but both faced strong challenges in Tuesday's bids for a trip to Champaign.

Herrin, ranked first in the final United Press poll of the regular season, collides with the West Frankfort Red Birds who own one of the three victories over Herrin this season.

Rock Falls, ranked second in the final poll, tackles the Fulton Steamers who have been beaten only twice and who upset highly regarded Moline in the sectionals.

West Frankfort, which held fourth place in the final poll, will have the home floor advantage against Herrin. But the Tigers beat West Frankfort by 13 points on the Red Bird floor in the Pyramid Tourney. In two other regular season matches, Herrin won by three points and West Frankfort won by one point.

Rockets Record Impressive
Herrin had three regulars back from the 1957 championship team to help build its 28-3 record. They are Willie Williams, Dick Box and Jim Gualdoni. High-scoring forward Francis Florian and 6-5 center Vlado Zavich pace the West Frankfort offense.

The Rock Falls Rockets who blazed through the sectionals with little trouble, take an impressive 30-1 record into the game against Fulton. Play-making guard Gary Kolb is the key man in the potent Rocket offense which hit a high of 142 points in a single regional game.

Fulton, with a 25-2 record, is led by Mike Woods and Larry Prins.

In other games, Chicago Marshall, the only perfect record team still in the tourney at 26-0, meets Elgin at Evanston. George Wilson is a leading scorer in the Marshall Commando attack.

Elgin, 19-7, one of four repeaters from last year's Sweet Sixteen, is paced by Jack Plederer and has one of the tallest teams in the tourney.

Another member of last year's Sweet Sixteen back again this year is Springfield which meets Quincy at Springfield. Both teams are built around 6-7 centers, junior Tom Cole for the Capital City Senators and sophomore Bumpy Nixon for the Blue Devils.

Pirates Back Strong
Springfield which won the Big 12 Conference championship, is 23-

8 for the season while Quincy is 21-8.

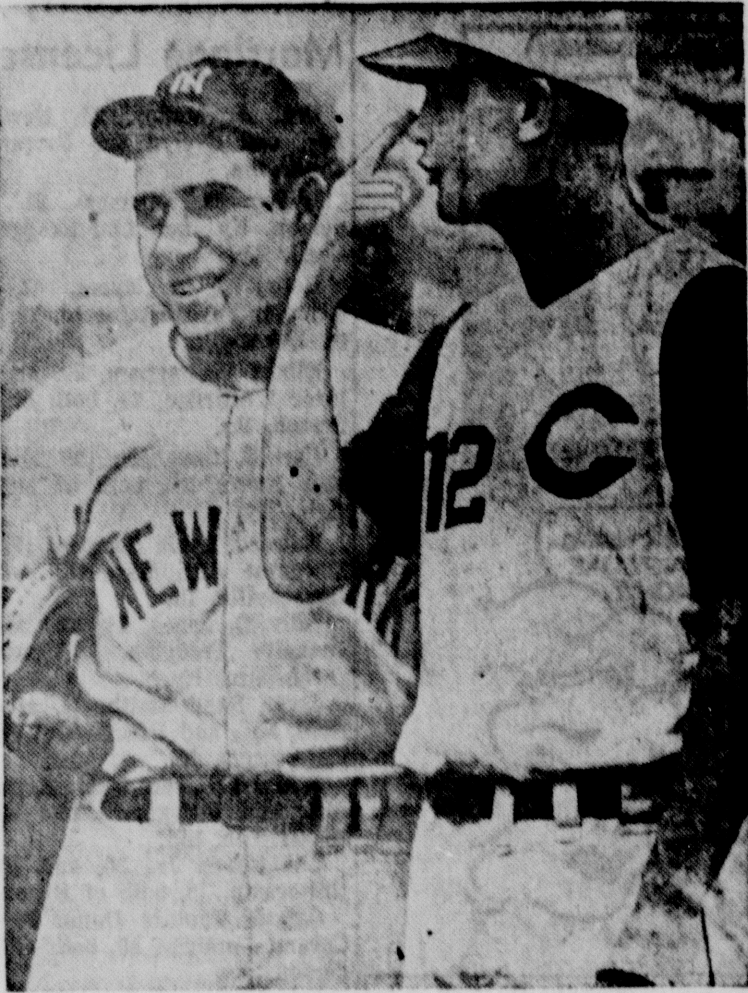

At Peoria, the Ottawa Pirates who won third place in the state last year and have four regulars back from that team, meet the Peoria Spalding Irish. Ottawa, led by hot-shot guard Francis Clements, posted a 22-9 record for the season after a disappointing start.

The Irish led by Dave McGann and Mike Haley, are short on height, but logged a 24-5 record.

It's the Bradley Boilermakers, 26-6, against Aurora West, 17-8, at Aurora. Sophomore Steve Crews at 6-6 and center Harold Emme and Don Robards, both 6-5, give Bradley height. Aurora West is led by 5-10 junior guard Bill Small who captured the Big Eight Conference scoring championship.

The game at Salem pits Jerseyville, conqueror of highly regarded Edwardsville in the sectionals, against Highland, which has a 25-4 record. Bill Smith, an outshoot-wizard who tanked 33 points against Edwardsville, was the key man for Jerseyville on the way to its 27-3 record.

At Decatur, Arcola with a 27-2 record meets Danville Schlarmans, 17-11 for the season. High scoring captain Ed Harshbarger leads the Arcola Purple Riders. Schlarmans is a young team with only one senior, guard Jerry Kuemmerle on the starting five.

Pistons Sweep Two from Royals To Win Playoffs

By United Press
The Detroit Pistons, sweeping two straight games from a Cincinnati team shaken by the illness of Maurice Stokes, berthed safely today in the Western finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs against the St. Louis Hawks.

The Pistons, who won at home Saturday in a nationally-televised game, trounced Cincinnati again, 124-104, in Cincinnati Sunday to clinch the best-two-of-three play-offs.

However, the Eastern Division first round series fell into a 1-1 tie when the Philadelphia Warriors rallied to beat the Syracuse Nationals, 95-93, in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia and Syracuse will clash in the third and deciding game of their series Tuesday night at Syracuse, with the winner earning the right to meet Boston in the Eastern finals.

Pro Star Maurice Stokes Collapses; In Critical Condition

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati Royal star Maurice Stokes remained in a coma and critical condition today from a mysterious illness that doctors have been unable to diagnose.

The big 6-7 center collapsed aboard a plane from Detroit after the Royals lost their opening National Basketball Association playoff game to the Detroit Pistons.

Teammates said the usually jovial Stokes felt slightly ill before taking off from Detroit. Later Stokes slumped into unconsciousness and couldn't be aroused. The pilot radioed ahead for an ambulance to take the player to St.

Vern Rollins

END OF AN ERA! Last Thursday Vernon Rollins played his last basketball game for the Carrier Mills Community high school.

The game was played in Harrisburg's Davenport gymnasium, the second game of the Harrisburg sectional tournament against a big rugged, very good West Frankfort team. Rollins' final game for CMCHS was a losing one, but he gave another good performance.

There were some fans after the game that remarked "Rollins looked bad tonight." But he had scored 16 points and grabbed an awful lot of rebounds. When a player has a night like that and some fans still think he "looked bad" it indicates the player has earned the reputation of being a star performer and is expected to come through with a stellar performance every time.

VERNON entered CMCHS as a freshman the year his high-scoring brother Oliver Rollins was a junior. Oliver was already attracting attention over the state for his scoring ability and Vern pretty well played in the shadow of the "Big Cat" for two years.

Then Oliver graduated from high school and immediately became a Harlem Globetrotter.

Vern came into his own as a junior and this past season was a terrific player.

As a freshman he appeared in some 22 games and scored 95 points. During that season he had one 10-point effort and scored nine points in three different games.

His sophomore year he was a regular, appearing in all 26 games played by Carrier Mills.

One of the many sports writers covering the championship game of the Harrisburg sectional was Bill Schroder of the Champaign News-Gazette.

Bill was watching his fourth game in three days. Wednesday afternoon he saw Marshall beat DuSable in a Chicago league game, that night he went to Rockford and watched Rock Falls win from East Rockford. Thursday night he was in Pinckneyville and saw Herrin win from Tamm. Friday night he was in Harrisburg and saw West Frankfort take the sectional title from Mt. Vernon.

Schroder, who moved up in the Gazette sports department after the death of Harrisburg native Jack Prowell, calls Charlie Vaughn of Tamm "the best in the state." The boy can do everything, according to Schroder.

New Electronic Driver License Record In Illinois First of Kind in Nation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.— Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier today announced completion of the installation of an electronic data processing system in the Drivers License Division of his office, the first of its kind in the nation designed for a driver licensing and driver control program.

In the face of ever-increasing numbers of drivers and driver records, Secretary Carpentier said, the advanced data processing equipment is a necessary tool making it possible to achieve the constant supervision, control and education of individual drivers which traffic safety experts have agreed comprise the key to reduced motor vehicle injuries and deaths.

The speed with which the IBM installation handles such information as reports of convictions for traffic law violations, accidents and examinations failures makes possible faster action against drivers whose records show them to be a constant source of danger on the highways and should result in the saving of lives, Mr. Carpentier said.

Punched cards containing the information are fed into the data processing system at the rate of 200 a minute and immediately recorded on the appropriate drivers' records in a master tape file.

At the same time, all of the appropriate actions resulting from the driver's new record are recorded on another tape which is then used to print the necessary warning letters, suspensions, revocations, cancellations and new abstracts of records.

Each revocation or suspension order is accompanied by an abstract of the driver's record for review by trained driver control officers before final issue, Secretary Carpentier said.

The Magnetic tapes make possible a prodigious memory in the machine which stores an almost unlimited volume of information that is readily accessible. Fifteen thousand characters can be read or written in one second, and each 2,400 linear feet of tape can store over 5,000,000 characters.

The computer automatically processes data in accordance with instructions stored in its memory.

The machine reads, writes, performs arithmetic operations, sorts collates and then summarizes the information in useful form, and performs those operations with a degree of accuracy and speed unattainable by human beings.

The new system has made it possible for the Drivers License Division to adopt a new type of permanent driver license number which establishes a positive identification of the person to whom the license is issued, Secretary Carpentier said.

Records of thousands of drivers with the same names can now be readily distinguished, and each number becomes an individual control number for use throughout all future record keeping and processing operations. The permanent numbers are computed at the rate of 100 a minute at the beginning of processing operations for license applications, conviction reports, accident reports and other information.

The combination of a positive driver identification number with the electronic data processing system has enabled the Division to begin the consolidation of 13 separate files into one single master file.

The value of this fast, new system can be seen when it is realized that last year 2,380,000 license applications were processed, 657,000 license examinations were given, 726,000 reports of traffic law violation convictions were received and 1,000,000 drivers' records were watched because of earlier traffic violations or accidents, Secretary Carpentier said.

News from the State Capitol

The population of Illinois reached an estimated 9,754,000 in July 1957, an increase of 12 per cent over the state's 1950 census, according to statistics prepared for the state Department of Public Health by the Population and Research and Training Center of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Roland R. Cross, state director of Public Health, pointed out that "the excess of births over deaths is about 135,000 each year and therefore about 82 per cent of the population growth is a natural increase." The remaining 18 per cent increase is due to immigration.

Governor Stratton announced an 18 per cent reduction in traffic deaths during February as compared to the same month a year ago. He said the reduction—137 to 112—"marks the eighth consecutive month in which fatalities have been fewer than in the corresponding month of the preceding year."

"Certainly by now we are entitled to believe that there is more than coincidence in the fact that those are the eight months of the new traffic program which the legislature accepted and enacted, and which became effective July 1, 1957." The observations were given in a speech to the Illinois Editors and Publishers Traffic Safety organization.

"If teen-agers drive like crazy mixed-up kids, it's largely because of their crazy mixed-up parents." This comment came from Paul Jones, director of public information for the National Safety Council, who spoke at the first annual Governor's Youth Safety Conference to enlist teenagers in the crusade for safe driving.
